Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as chired by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. Tays have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting them, and who were often strongly, prijudiced and advised, against it tild of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been [Greed to confess that it surpasses, in cuntive power over the fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty coditiver oil and its fifthy "enulaions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases until had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short; time. Extract of mait, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain.

Washington, Aug. 14. The assertion by Wrn. L. Wilson during the debate yesterday that the Sugar Trust, in anticipation of favorable legislation, would make $40,000,000, has called forth the following letter from Mr. John F. Searles, the Secretary of the Trust:
Washington, Aug. 13, 1894.

Hon. Wrn. L. Wilson:
Sir-Believing that you have no location or desire to misrepresent the facts, I respectfully beg leave to place before you the within "Statistical Trade Journals," disapproving the extraordinary statement made by you in the caucus this morning.

If you are correctly reported to the effect that the American Bugar Refluing Company had, in anticipation of the passage of the tariff bill, accumulated $112,. 900,000 worth of sugar, thereby making a profit of $40,000,000, if you will kindig look of the within trade circular, the latest bublished, you will notice on page 4 that the total sugar stock in the commercial world on August 9 was a 1,112,603 tons, the total value of which, free on board vessels, would not exceed $60,000,000,000, of this amount 400,363 tons was the stock in all ports of the United Sintes.

Columbus, O., Aug. 14. "I will not talk for publication," said Gov. McKinley, last night. "I understand, however, that the House has made h complete surrender to the Senate, but in the absence of full information on the subject, I do not care to be quoted. Then the Governor read a few extracts from the letter of President Cloveland to Chairman Wilson, denouncing, the Senate bill as the name of "party perfuly" and "party dishonor," and murmared something about the crow being a popular dish just now; "But he will sign the bill or allow it to become a law by the expiration of the constitutional ten days," said the Governor.

"The dose will be an unpalatable one and he must swallow his words, but he can do nothing else." The Governor idld venture to say that under the statistics furnished by the Senate committee, based on the importations of sugar during the ilseal year up to June. 30, 1883, the ad valorem duty under the McKinley haw of 1890 was 11.85 per cent., and under the proposed law passed yesterday, based upon the same importations, the ad valorem rate would be 43.21 per cent. or a difference of 1½ cents upon every pound of sugar imported linto this country.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Dressmakers' prices form a topic for lively discussion whenever two or three women meet for any length of time; it is a common grievance. High rents in is a common grievance. High rents in the city make it necessary for the dress-maker to ask higher prices for even the same quality of work that would be done in the country for much less. Eighteen dollars for making a slik gingham and fourteen dollars for a plain unlined shirt and outing jacket are quoted, and one woman gave a dollar und a hulf for materials and eight; dollars for making. It is a matter of wonderment that more women do not seriously turn their attention to making their own dresses and learn how to set their sleeves proporly and sow their collars so that they will not drawait the nape of the neck or cut their skirts so that they will hang evenly. Women will study the intricacles of a crochet pattern and sew together lenumerable bits of cloth, but just how to lay a pattern on to cloth and cut it out to the best advantage looks problematic.

A Housekeeper's Apron. Most good housekeepers are provided with aprons with which to protect their dresses while doing the many little necessary things always needing attention dresses while doing the many little necessary things always needing attention about a house. Few, however, possess, or, I think havoseen, a more dainty and yet useful one than is here described writes Mrs. Beard in the Silter Cross These aprome can be made of a pretty light gingham, which, by the way, will not soil much, I cany sooner, than the dacker colored, and is very much pretter; or, if or light work, of sheer white mustin, with plak or blue chambray borders or hem; if for light work, of sheer white mustin, with plak or blue chambray borders or hem; these are extremely dainty and becoming. These aprons reach to the bottom of the dress, and are made with three broadths of the material, the front breadth being longer than the other two, and reaching half way up the Lust, forming a bib.

The top of the bib should be finished with a heading, little a little ruifle, gathered with two or three rows to a narrow band placed at the back of the bib. The two shorter breadths should reach only to the waist, and be gathered into a hand which extends all around the waist, but is fustened only to these two back breadths and reaching across the front of the waist and reaching across the front of the waist under the front breadth, but not fastened to it. From the ends of the band put strings about one finger wide and one yard long, and from the top of the same band, at right angles with the other arrings, put unother one two inches wide and three-quarters of a vard long. Also from the top of the bib, at each end, put a string two induces wide and one half a yard long. These last two strings tie in bows over the shoulders the arms without univing the atrings. The white aprens may be made even pretter and more dainty looking by the addition of ribbons on the shoulders instead of strings, and hemsitiching at the tops of the hems, if one feels inclined to spend more time and money on them.

Housekeeping Tools.
Easy housekeeping is augmented by naving aufilelent kitchen utensils, says the Jenness Miller Monthly. The deliclous the Jenness Miller Monthly. The delicious breakfast muiths that we all enjoy so much cannot be made in every house, because there are not always rings. An old-fashloned bolied dinner would be a delightful change in amony households, but there is often only one available pot; all the others leak. The first one to need repair was not soldered, and one after another has met a similar fate, until now nearly all the contents of the lin closet are waiting for the arrival of the tluker. This argues bad management. Every leak should be stopped as soon as it appears.

Then, too, be on the lookout for the Then, too, be on the lookout for the many helps of time and strength that are now in market. Apple corers, potato peelers and cutting machines are so incremented as to make it plassible for everybody to have them. Clothes wringers everybody is supposed to have, and yet all housekeepers have not even these.

Asbestos plates, costing a few centa each, are invalenble in toastmiking. Put the plate next to the red coals, use as you do the stove lid. When it is not lay two or three sliess of bread on it, and go about your work as if bread were not being toasted, only is a few moments return to the fire, turn your bread over and do the other side. Toast made this way is delicious, and besides the time saved, the hand is not reddened or scorched. Buy also assembling inachine; it is easily worked, after the order of a sweeper, and it saves an immense amount of time, as also the back, knees and clothing of whoever has the scrubbing to do.

The Alladin oven is invaluable, as are also kerosene and oil stoves.

Your city young man may be a triedd of your summer man for all you know; and it may be embarrassing for you when they compare notes. Don't try to make folks believe you are seventeen years old when you are really twenty. Summer resort people may look unsophisticated, but they are not. CONGRESSIONAL.

Washington, Aug. 14 Now that the tarist bill has been passed by the House, the next subject of speculation is as to the Presidents position regarding it will he sign it, or permit it to become a law without his signature, or will his disapprovat of the measure, lead blim to vo to it. Few believe he will take so extreme a course as vetoing it It has been stated repeatedly by those who reflect his sentiments that he would agree to the bill which came to him with the approval of the House conferees. The Senne bill, as shown by yesterday s vote, has not only the approval of the House conferees, but was endorsed by the House Democrats in caucus to the number of 1.30 in the affirmative to 21 in opposition. Not many believe the Pleatdent will sign the bill. It is thought that his opposition to the measure is so strong that he cannot consistently affix his signature to it, but rather than have no tariff legislation by this Congress, he will permit it to be come a law without signing it. This opinion is shared by the test informed men in the Hoise.

I notiling of the tunif bill was completed last night and the Compilitie on knowledged in the compilities to have comparing it with the original text from which it was copiled. Washington, Aug 14 There was no unusual sign of trouble or excitement among the Senators to-day and no apparent worry over the action of the House last evening. concurrence of the House in all the Sen at a amendments to the tariff bill if these bills only get to the committee it is not likely anything will be done with them Mr Jones, of Arkansas said this morning that he believed the sugar bill would pass. Ho was in favor of it and would do all in his power to get it before the Senate for a decisive, vue. The four bills mentioned now ile on the Vice President's desk.

Mr Halejoffered a resolution to print 5 000 copies of the tariff bill as passed, to be known as 'the Sugar Irust tariff bill

"Let that the over,' said Mr Cockrell (Dem. Mo.)
"Is that the title of the bill?' Mr Vest asked in a belieuse tone, "or does the Senator give it that title himself "Of course,' Mr Hale replied, 'it is not the regular title of the bill, but it is the title it will receive in popular acceptance Public sentiment will settle that.'
